1. Introduction (Font: Times New Roman 10pt Bold)

This template, modified in MS Word 2003 and it is the official guide for authors of General Scientific Researches journal. Through this document, we will get into the right format of papers for publishing in SP. These guidelines include complete descriptions of the fonts, spacing, and related information for producing your manuscripts. All standard paper components have been specified for three reasons: ease of use when formatting individual papers, automatic compliance to electronic requirements that facilitate the concurrent or later production of electronic products, and conformity of style throughout a journal paper. Margins, column widths, line spacing, and type styles are built-in; examples of the type styles are provided throughout this document and are identified in italic type, within parentheses, following the example. PLEASE DO NOT RE-ADJUST THESE MARGINS. Some components, such as multi-leveled equations, graphics, and tables are not prescribed, although the various table text styles are provided. The formatter will need to create these components, incorporating the applicable criteria that follow.

References MUST be specified in the text by roman numbers like [1] and they should be addressed at the end of paper.

Please note that you are kindly required to use Equation Editor for typing your equations:

$$f(x) = \int \left(\frac{\sin(x)}{x^2}\right) \cos(x) dx + \lim_{x \to \infty} x \cos(x)$$

References:

The text, a reference identified by means of an author's name should be followed by the date of the reference in parentheses. When there are more than two authors, only the first author's name should be mentioned, followed by 'et al'. In the event that an author cited has had two or more works published during the same year, the reference, both in the text and in the reference list, should be identified by a lower case letter like 'a' and 'b' after the date to distinguish the works.
